FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

CGI Expands Series 560 Sliding Glass Door to 3-Track System

SGD 560 Now Available for Pocketing Applications and with Automation

MIAMI – April 15, 2010 – CGI Windows and Doors, Inc., (CGI) a leading manufacturer of a full line of premium, impact-resistant windows and doors, has just received Miami-Dade approval for its Series 560 3-track 6 panel system. CGI's unique system is available with 5' x 10' panels allowing configurations up to 30' x 10'. The Series 560 system is available in a variety of configurations including pockets, with design pressures as high as +120 /- 170 PSF.

The Company also announced that the sliding glass door system is now available with an automated door activation system. With the touch of a button, homeowners can activate their sliding glass doors with minimal effort. The product can be configured for either new construction or replacement applications. Certain configurations are available with a wireless keypad and remote control activator for low cost installation.

"This expansion to our popular sliding glass door line provides our customers with unique sizes and configurations that were not available in the market before," said Steven E. Dawson, Executive Vice President of Sales. "Further, with the recent announcement of our new Estate Entrances Door Collection and our Therma Tru distribution agreement, CGI has significantly expanded its door offering for its customers," he added.

ABOUT CGI WINDOWS & DOORS

CGI has a strong reputation for offering architectural-grade impact windows and doors with unique features and high-quality construction that exceed industry standards. CGI products have been specified and installed in some of the most prestigious residential and commercial projects in South Florida, including the Palm Beach Breakers Hotel historical restoration. Established in 1992, the company was the first impact window and door manufacturer to offer PVB laminated glass designed exclusively to meet the Miami-Dade County impact-resistant protocols.
